

Sonia Thompson

Sonia is the Headteacher at St Matthew's C.E. Primary School and the Director of St Matthew's EEF (Education Endowment Foundation) Research School, in Nechells Birmingham. St Matthew's is a Talk for Writing Training Centre and previously held DfE Teaching School status and is still a Support School. Her school regularly hosts' visits for Teachers, Headteachers and MATs, from across the country and internationally, who want to see evidence-informed practice across the curriculum.

Sonia recently published a book called, An Ethic of Excellence in Action; has had articles published and regularly reviewed blogs for Schools Week. She has a chapter in, the researched Guide to the Curriculum and is a contributor to the new WALKTHRU3 book. Sonia is a board member of the UKLA (United Kingdom Literacy Association), National Council and Birmingham Diocese Board of Education. She is also a trustee for the Church of England National Society, Classics for All and the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF). Sonia is also a member of the DfE External Reference Group, advising on Teacher Training and Early Career Framework reforms. She is also a Secondary School Academy Chair. Sonia is regularly asked to deliver keynotes and training at various conferences and events, across the country and internationally.

